Dentist Dr. Arnd Lohmann M.Sc. is a new member of Leading Implant Centers

Zug/Bremen, 25th September 2013 | Certified top-implantologists present themselves on our new flagship platform. The latest member in our elite group is Dr. Arnd Lohmann M.Sc. from Bremen in Germany.

With Dr. Arnd Lohmann M.Sc., owner of the Dental Practice Dr. Lohmann, the Internet platform of Leading Implant Centers has won another high-quality member. The top-class implantologist and expert in oral implantology Dr. Arnd Lohmann M.Sc. has proven that he is not only highly engaged for his own further education, but also equally conscientious of the qualification requirements of future implantologists. Extensive practice experience as well as profound know-how and many years of experience on the latest scientific level, complimented by constant participation in advanced training and education, as well as further training and continuous education, are the requirements that an implantologist needs to repeatedly demonstrate in order to gain this award at first, but then also to earn it anew again and again.

Leading Implant Centers solely incorporates implantologists on its platform who are on the highest education and certification level of scientific associations. Over the worldwide available multilingual portal, interested individuals and patients can find those implantologists who have been successfully certified. Thereby, Leading Implant Centers dissociates itself fundamentally from the in-transparent and exceedingly subjective assessment portals.

At Leading Implant Centers, all participating implantologists possess extensive practical knowledge as well as profound know-how and many years of experience on the latest scientific level complimented by constant participation in advanced training and education as well as further training and continuous education.

For the patients concerned the herewith gained transparency is an important step and offers high quality guidance. At the same time, the growing market of implantology is saved from being negatively affected by individuals who are not willing to invest in their qualification as implantologist, but instead in cunning marketing tricks. With the collaboration of the national scientific associations and the international umbrella association we create a basis that provides orientation and offer a platform solely for those implantologists that invest in their abilities and provide input into the field of expertise. Furthermore, Leading Implant Centers understands itself to be a communication platform of its members for the patients. Participating implantologists and their practices will on the one hand be supported locally with public relations and marketing and on the other hand the global marketing activities will promote the image of certified implantologists internationally.

For many years, Dr. Arnd Lohmann M.Sc. has been an established dentist in Bremen in Germany. Next to implantology he also offers vast dental care in further fields of dentistry. With his membership, the Leading Implant Centers is enriched with another top implantologist. You will find his presentation at Leading Implant Centers under www.LeadngImplantCenters.com
